

From Montreal...

'LA FUGUE'

A compelling tale of life on the streets with live rock, rap and JS Bach!

Touring Wales from 10 to 23 November

An unlikely, but compelling combination of hard-hitting drama, live rock music, rap and JS Bach hits stages across Wales in November.

La Fugue tells the story of teenage runaway loan. The mystery unfolds when his father is given a collection of his belongings from the police: each item the father examines comes to life, and the story of his son's disappearance is gradually reconstructed, telling of the hardship, and the love, that he finds on the streets.

Creu Cymru, the development agency for theatres and arts centres in Wales, is bringing Montreal-based theatre company Qui Va Là to theatres in Llanelli, Ystradgynlais, Harlech, Porthcawl, Builth Wells and Abergavenny, who will present this powerful drama to their communities.

The title is a play on words between JS Bach's Art of Fugue and 'fugue' meaning 'running away' in French. The soundtrack is based throughout on Bach's musical masterpiece, and takes the audience from live, hard-edged rock to intimate solo piano, with rap thrown in for good measure on the way.

La Fugue is a modern story for and about young people. It is a show without words, using actors, music and stunning visual images to convey the story of the dangers faced by, and the vulnerability of, two young people living on the streets.

Suitable for adults and young people aged 12 and over, this is a not-to-be-missed opportunity to experience an innovative drama which grips the imagination and touches the heart. Performed to international acclaim, La Fugue is a play that lives in the memory of all who see it.
